

LETTER OF INTENT

My dearest friend,

I am writing to formally express my interest in joining your organization – team. With over thirty years of international business experience, I am confident in my ability to contribute significantly to your company's strategic objectives.

Throughout my career, I have successfully held executive positions, including CEO, COO, and Project Manager, with expertise across a range of functions — Sales, Marketing, Public Relations, Human Resources, and Research & Development. Additionally, my skills in Website Development, SEO, and Copywriting complement my leadership experience. You can review my credentials at the following link:

In terms of my offer, I propose a one-year employment contract, with the option to extend it to a permanent position.

In exchange for your financial assistance with my relocation: a one-way plane ticket, three months of accommodation and meals, and one salary in advance, I am willing to offer a 10% reduction in salary for the first year.

This arrangement would allow me to establish myself in the U.S. and fully dedicate myself to delivering measurable value to your organization - team.

I hold an immigrant visa - and have authorization to work and live in the US.

Believe that my experience, skills, and proven ability to drive business success make me a valuable asset.

I am eager to discuss this opportunity further and explore how my background can align with your company's goals.

Kind regards,
Dejan Marinković
